newspaper ye terday: WANTED-Girls, 16-18, for light work; $6 week; $6 to 1 only. 61 Pineapple st., Brooklyn.

About 500 girls all of whom said they were 18 er under, answered the advertisement. The address to which the advertisement directed them is a furnished room house on the west side of the street, about a block and a half from Ful-

Some of the girls carried luncheon baskets and explained that they had jobs, but if there was any light work around at $0 a week, they would throw up the jobs they had and eat their iuncheons elsewhere. Finally one of them rang the bell and asked about the advertisement. They were referred to the front room one flight up.

Three or four went up and the rap of one was answered by a well-dressed young man was better than the others, to walk into the back room. The man closed the door. In bout ten minutes the girl came out. She seemed to be in a great burry and her face was flushed. She made for the door and disappeared. Then another girl was called in. She didn't stay as long as the first one and looked scared when she came out. She didn't stop to tell her experiences. One of the first detachment got a job and some more were sent for and they followed one another into the inner room. Finally a girl, who was probably in her nineteenth year, at least, came out. She wasn't scared and she wasn't in a hurry, but she was very angry. She walked up to the other girls and said:

and said:

if I were you, I'd stop this. That fellow isn'tright. I don't want any of his light work."

She left the front room and the others followed. There was a consultation on the street. there was a consultation of the street, policerian came along and asked what the thering was. The girl who had addressed to the supstairs told him, or started to.

And after he got me in there alone with me what do you think he did? What do

My guess wouldn't be worth giving," said the cop. "Go and tell the captain."

Three or four of the girls were directed to the Adams street police station. There they told their stories to the captain. It seems that as soon as a girl got into the inside room the young man told her he was engaging some good-looking women to go on the stage. The ones he selected didn't have to be so very good looking, but they had to be well made.

"Yes," interrupted one of the girls, "he said we'd have to have good shabes and then he got fresh."

The captain said he would send a couple of The captain said he would send a couple of policemen down to investigate, but that if any of the girls wanted to make complaints he would have to have their names and addresses. Three finally said they would appear against the man who had taken liberties with them. They said they were Minnie Munson, is, of 502 Lexington avenue: Bertha Yates, 17, of 314 Suydam street, and Lizzie Erote, is, of 79 Hart street. Two policemen went to the Pineapple street house and arrested the man, who said he was Harry J. Helmrich, 32 years old. He said he had been on the stage, but hadn't been doing anything for some time. He said that he had inserted the advertisement for the purpose of securing four girls, whom he expected to take on the road with regular actors within a week.

When he came out with the policemen 300 of the girls were still in front of the house. They closed in around the policemen and the prisoner. Helmrich looked frightened when some of the girls said something about eggs. In the Adams street police court he was held in $1,000 bail for trial.

Mrs. Tiemann testified that they had breakfast together the next morning and Tiemann borrowed a dollar from her. Kitty kent testified that Tiemann followed her to her room, and told her that his father had promised him $1,000 if he obtained the divorce. Tiemann promised to spend the money on her if he got it. She acknowledged that Tiemann remained in the room with her during the night.

Frank R Moore, Collector of Internal Revenue, testified that he had intended to cause Mrs. Tiemann's arrest for non-payment of the Government liquor tax and that she called at his office about the matter. Mrs. Tiemann said to the witness: "Why don't you come down and see me? I'll give you a red hot time."

What did you say?" asked Justice Herrick? I replied 'not on your life,' " said Collector

The jury was out only an hour. Their verdict was that Mrs. Tiemann was guilty.

DIDN'T WED JUDGE GOODRICH. Miss Maxwell Went to Chicago to Do So, but Broke the Engagement.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.-The wedding of ex-Judge Adam A. Goodrich and Miss Eleanor Raymond Maxwell of Champaign did not take place last night as had been arranged. Their engagement is broken. The marriage was to have taken place at the Wellington Hotel Miss Maxwell and her mother had come to Chicago n Saturday and engagedrooms at the Welling-on Yesterday, however, ex-Judge Good-ch asked for postponement on account of is health. Later in the day Miss Maxwell anounced that she had broken the engage-

"I wish to make the announcement publicly that I have broken my engagement to ex-Judge Goodrich," she said. "I intended to marry him when I came to Chicago on Saturday, but since that time I have learned things about Mr. Goodrich which make it impossible for me to marry him."

Judge Goodrich is reported to be extremely ill and gives that as his reason for asking the postponement. Dr. Hammond, the house physician of the Wellington, says Judge Goodrich will never entirely recover. Miss Maxwell has considerable reputation as a writer.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN.

The countrymen who spent Tuesday at the Democratic headquarters in the Hoffman House received a shock late in the afternoon which disgusted them. When they arrived in the morning they discovered that the water cooler had not been filled, and it looked suspiciously as if it had been dry for weeks. Their throats were parched, and one of the servants The following advertisement appeared in a was ordered to fill the cooler and keep it filled. When he came in carrying a gallon bottle, labelled with the name of a well known spring water, every countryman in the room made a rush for the water cooler. Another big botile followed the first, and during the day the servant lowed the first, and during the day the servant was kept busy supplying the thirsty.

"Tastes a leetle bit like our water at home," said one man after his second glass.

"I don't know where your home may be," said another, "but if you've got any springs throwing out this kind of water, I advise you to bottle all you can get of it. It sells for five cents a glass at the soda fountains."

No such water drinking crowd ever assembled in the Hoffman House before. Late in the afternoon one of the countrymen happened to be in the hall when the servant came out with a big empty bottle. His eyes opened wide as the servant want to a faucet and filled the bottle from it.

"That for the tank inside?" asked the countryman.

"Yes, sir."
"What kind of water is it."

"You've come in answer to the advertisement," he said with a smile. "Come right in."

The girls went into a room which was quite bare of furniture. The young man looked them over and then told one, whose appearance was better than the others to walk into the company of them and hurt their feelings.

Within a few days two members of the Automobile Club are going to take to the Supreme about ten minutes the girl came out. She seemed to be in a great hurry and her face was flushed. The Spanish bunco game, which has been exposed frequently during the past twenty years, lost a victim in this city last week by mere chance. The usual preliminary letter from the Spanish officer who was in prison, offering one-quarter of a fortune of $250,000 to the re-cipient if he would take care of his daughter, now in a convent, was received by a well-known business man. The Spanish officer, as usual, explained that his mother had been a distant relative of this New York man, and hence he appealed to him. He asked the New Yorker to cable to his daughter at an address in Spain if he would take care of her. The New Yorker had never heard of this bunco game and decided to send the deepatch and see what came of it. He went to the cable office and asked the manager if there was such a place in Spain as that mentioned in the letter. The manager told him that there was, and the New Yorker pulled out his letter to make sure of the address. "Is that letter from a Spanish officer in prison who wants you to take care of his daughter and his fortune?" asked the manager. "Yes," said the New Yorker. "How did you know that?"

"A man came in here last week with a similar letter and sent a cable despatch. It looks a bit queer. I think that I would investigate if I were you."

The New Yorker brought the letter to The Sun office and when he was informed that it was part of a Spanish bunco game he was disgusted and surprised. From all over the United States have come stories of victims of this fraud, but it is evidently still a new story to many people. he would take care of her. The New Yorker

Blauvelt, or Mrs. Smith, as she was then known, went to Paris after leaving the conservatory here and her father-in-law claimed that he advanced the money by which she was enabled to continue her studies and make a debut abroad in opera. But there was no attempt to enforce the payment of this note until Miss Blauvelt secured a divorce in South Dakota. Shortly afterward she married a New York broker and left for Europe, where she has spent the past two years singing with success, particularly in England and Italy. Now she has returned to resume her place here as the leading concert singer of the country. Miss Blauvelt is said to have earned in some seasons as much as $30,000, and now that she has returned to her admirers after a long absence, her success will doubtless be as great as it ever was. So it will probably be little trouble for the soprano to pay her former father-in-law the $5,000. It had always been thought that Miss Blauvelt's musical education had been obtained at the National Conservatory here. Blauvelt, or Mrs. Smith, as she was then known,

WAROVER WOMAN'STRUNKS | DENIES T. J. HAVEMEYER MARRIAGE. STORY OF MRS. ABBRY AT THE

CUSTOM HOUSE INVESTIGATION. Theobald Insisted That She Was a Dressmaker When She Wasn't, and, on the Mention of Traitteur's Name, Ordered Her Trunks

Seized Peremptorily-Trunks Still Held. Surveyor Croft had every one up before him yesterday who is concerned in the snarl among Custom House officers that began with the seizure at L.A uitaine's pier last Sunday of three trunks belonging to Mrs. R. Abbey. The hearing was not held to inquire into the merits of the seizure, but to investigate a statement alleged to have been made by W. H. Theobald. special employee of the Collector's office, who made the seizure, that the woman or some woman had told him she had "fixed it" with Col. Traitteur, the customs inspector attached to the law division of the Custom House, so that her trunks should be passed.

Col. Phelps, Col. Traitteur, John C Ward, he inspector who was present when Theobald ordered the seizure, Mrs. Abbey and a young woman friend of hers, Miss Mabel Blackman, who is a niece of Samuel Parker of the Parker House, were all at the hearing. Theobaid was not, but, it was reported, was examined privately later. The testimony at the hearing, it was understood, went to show Col. Traitteur's innocence of any connection with the case. It also went to show that Mrs. Abbey and her companion, Miss. Blackman, were not dressmakers, as Theobaid is understood to have accused them of being. Mrs. Abbey, who gave her Christian name as Ruth, testified that she was the wife of a San. Francisco business man. On the pier, she said, she answered all the questions that the inspection required her to answer, and as the inspection was in progress. Theobaid approached her and said insolently:

"You are a dresspaaker. I know you."

"You are mistaken." Mrs. Abbey replied.

"You are mistaken." Mrs. Abbey replied.

"You are mistaken me for some one else."

Miss Blackman, who had come to the pier to meet her, then spoke up and said to Theobald:

"You are certainly mistaken sir. This lady." woman friend of hers, Miss Mabel Blackman, to meet her, then spoke up and said to Theobald:

"You are certainly mistaken sir. This lady is not a dissamaker. She is a friend of mine."

At this T'eobald is reported to have turned to Miss Blackman and replied:

"Oh, she is. You are a dressmaker too."

Both women were protesting, thinking it best to be conciliatory so far as possible, when Miss Blackman remarked:

"Do you know Col. Traitteur of the Custom House? He is a friend of mine. He has known me for years. He will tell you I am not a dressmaker and she is not. She has been travelling abroad with her husband. The clothes are for her own use."

The mention of Traitteur's name to the surprise of Mrs. Abbey and Miss Blackman, who were not aware of any feud existing in the customs circles, was followed at once by an order by Theobald for the seizure of the goods. Surveyor Croft declined to talk after the hearing regarding the case and what his report to Collector, it was understood yesterday, is disguisted at the bickerings that have been going on between the different customs officers and may even refer the whole matter to Secretary Gage for action.

In the meantime Mrs. Abbey's trunks are still under detention. She is staying until her husband returns from Europe with Miss Blackman. under detention. She is staying until her hus-band returns from Europe with Miss Blackman.

Last Sunday morning there was to pass through. The seniors led the line, marching two by two and dividing as if in a game of Virginia reel, allowed the rest of the procession, led by President Seelye, Lieut-Gov. Bates and his staff, to walk between them. The guests and alumnæ, who are back several hundred strong, with the senior class filled the chapel almost to the limit of its capacity, leaving the larger proportion of the other undergradnates to get the benefit of the exercises by hearsay.

The programme opened with a violin solo by Mr. C. N. Allen; following was a prayer by Bishop Lawrence, of Massachusetts, after which Mrs. Humphrey Allen sang an aria, from "Elijah." Lieut.-Gov. Bates gave the greeting and congratulations of the Commonwealth to the college and next on the programme was the address of Dr. John M. Greene, the pastor and confidential adviser of Sophia Smith, the founder of the college. He told the story of the college, from its nebulous form in Miss Smith's mind, until her will made it a definite possibility. After the singing of an anthem, composed by Dr. Blodgett, of the music department, Presiden Seelye continued the historical review of the Seelye continued the historical review of the college, tracing it through all its stages, from the opening morning, when twelve girls at prayer comprised the whole college to this, its twenty-fifth year, when the number of alumne has reached 1,000, to match the year, and the undergraduate body alone includes 1,200 students. The exercises closed with a hymn in which the entire college audience Joined.

with death gowns on and candles in their hands. The married men wore skull caps, and the old women who occupied quarters by themselves wore wigs. Yom Rippur is one of the few Jewish holidays when women are permitted to worship in the synazogues.

Yom Rippur commenced on Tuesday at sundown and lasted until sundown last evening. During that period the faithful were forbidden to eat or drink. The holiday was more strictly observed on the East Side than in any other part of the city. Business was generally suspended and the regular and temporary synazogues were filled with worshippers. The services consisted of an avowal of repentance and pledges to be virtuous during the coming year. When Yom Kippur ended last evening the stores of chickens and geese and other delicacies, which were procured on Tuesday, were brought forth and there was general feasting by those who had kept the fast.

They had given up hicycle riding on Sunday on Mr. Kelsey's advice and thought he had no right to ride on that day himself.

The Rev. Mr. Kelsey had not returned to his home last night. He has been at the Brighton Congregational Church for the last four years. Three years ago he declared that the floor of the church was diffry, and, as the woman of the congregation would not clean it, he said he would himself. RORBERS' DEN RAIDED.

Two Wagon Loads of Stelen Property Including Silk American Flag Recovered. Detectives of the West Shore and Eric railroads raided a ramshackle building at 507 Madison street, Hoboken yesterday and recovered two wagon loads of stolen property. Two young men who were found in the place were arrested. They said they were Edward Dixon of 65 Jefferson street and Alfred Wilson, no home. A number of oil lamps, such as are used on railroads were hung from the ceiling and the floor was littered with plunder. Most of the stuff had been stolen from railroads. There were several dozen brass journals, a number of air brake valves and screws, a large quantity of copper wire, a slik American flag valued at $50, and several pairs of rubber gloves which had probably been used on wire stealing expeditions. It is believed that the place was the headquarters of a gang of robbers who made a specialty of looting railroads. The slik flag was stolen from a boathouse on the Hackensack River. Two shotguns and a rifle taken from the same boathouse were also recovered. The copper wire was stolen from the Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson Street Railway several weeks ago.

The booty was taken to police headquarters. no home. A number of oil lamps, such as are

FIRE IN A POWER HOUSE. Many Trolley Lines in Brooklyn Tied Up for More Than an Hour.

The power house of the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company at Second street and Third avenue, Brooklyn, was set aftre yesterday morning by the crossing of heavily charged wires. There were 300 cars in operation on the Third avenue, Fifth avenue, Seventh avenue, Ninth avenue, Flatbush avenue, Hamilton avenue, Fifteenth street, Bergen street, Douglass street and Sackett street trolley lines and lass street and Sackett street trolley lines and the Flith avenue elevated road, all of which were supplied with power from the burning house. The result was that albihese cars were stopped. Travel in the sections of the borough through which these lines run was tied up for over an hour. As soon as possible after the fire was discovered the officials of the company had the trolley feed wires connected with the wires operated by the power houses in Bay Ridge and in Williamsburg.

A large dynamo and a big switchboard were destroyed. The heat was so intense that it burned the insulation off the wires a mile from the power house. The company estimate the damage at about $50,000.

BOTH RABBIS OFFICIATE. No Clash at the Atonement Day Services in Temple Beth-El.

At the Atonement Day services yesterday in the Temple Beth-El, where there had been a difference between the Rev. Dr. Kaufmann Kohler and the Rev. Samuel Schulman, the two rabbis, as to who should conduct the memtwo rabbis, as to who should conduct the memorial services in the afternoon, both rabbis officiated. This arrangement was agreed upon by the rabbis themselves and it was not necessary for the trustees to interpose.

Dr. Schulman preached the sermon yesterday afternoon and when it came to reading the list of members of the congregation who had died in the year Dr. Schulman read one-half of it and Dr. Kohler the other.

It was explained later that Dr. Kohler and Dr. Schulman have equal powers. The Temple Beth-El is the only Jewish church in the city where there are two rabbis.

MAN WHO LOST $200,000 GAMBLING Creditors of Feldstein Object to His Discharge in Bankruptey.

Arnold Feldstein, importer of raw silk, formerly at 41 Mercer street, who filed a petition in merly at 41 Mercer street, who filed a perition in bankruptev on May 7, with liabilities of $972,-$97, and whose examination before Referree Hall by Blumenstiel & Hersoh, disclosed that he had lost $290,000 in gambling houses within few months, applied yes erday in the United States District Court for his discharge in bank-ruptey. Objection was made by several credi-tors, and the matter went over for two weeks.

Brooklyn Elevated System Reorganized. The Brooklyn Eapid Transit Company has reorganized the elevated system, making six divisions instead of three, cach under the control of a superintendent. They will be known as the Fulton Street, Brichtor, Fifth Avenue, Broadway, Ridgewood and Brooklyn Bridge divisions. Superintendent George N. Edwards will have general su ervision. The change, it is expected, will result in the improvement of the service.

Thomas G. Shearman's Body Cremated. The body of Thomas G. Shearman was cremated vesterday at the Fresh Pond Cremator; in the presence of the three nephews and a few in the presence of the dead man. Preceding the close friends of the dead man. Preceding the cremation the Presbyterian burial service was read by Thomas G. Shearman, one of the nephews. The ashes were placed in the coffin and will be interred in the family grave in Green wood Cemetery

John P. Haines, President of the S. P. C. A., writes to THE SUN denving a story recently published that his society failed to send an agent to Far Rockaway this summer to investigate complaints about the cruelty of backmen to their horses. He says that officers of his society visited Far Rockaway repeatedly during the summer, that he also went over the ground and that every specific complaint of cruelty to animals there has been investigated.

Says S. P. C. A. Investigated.
